Mabuhay Winx Club Readers!

Hey, that was a really cool way of saying hello! Cool and very Filipino! That's because this issue gives tribute to all great things that are purely and genuinely P-I-N-O-Y! Bloom talks about some unique games that you may not be aware of (I certainly was not!) and Stella tells us where to buy awesome, one-of-a-kind accessories! (Imelda accessories – what can be more Pinoy than that?) Flora tugs at our hearts and tells us about endangered species and Tecna shares some great inventions that were pioneered by Filipinos! My piece is about two of the hottest names in the Pinoy music industry today: Kitchie and Nina! Exciting stuff, huh?

Gosh, all this talent should make all Filipinos proud! Last, but most certainly not the least, this issue is also about friendship: a truly Filipino trait! Bloom develops a friendship that will definitely last a lifetime! Do you have stories or drawings about friendship? If you do, send them in! We love hearing from you!

Keep the magic (and the beat!) alive.

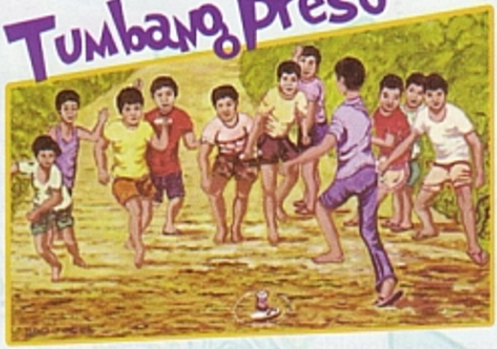
PINOY GAMES

What do you usually do to have fun? Imagine not having your television, Playstation or internet? Sounds scary, doesn't it? But just looking around you'll see that there are so many other ways to have fun and this is exactly what our fellow Filipino children play: Pinoy games! Bet you've never heard of some of these before.

Tumbang Preso



This is a fun simple game best played with a lot of people. To play this game you need a tin can, a bunch of slippers or anything you can hit the can with, players and an 'It'. The can is placed at the center and it is the "It's" job to try to protect it from the other players.
The other players have to try to hit the can with their slippers or they can kick the can if they get close enough to it with out getting tagged. If the can is still up then the "It" can tag any of the players. If the can is knocked down, then the "It" cannot tag them. Just don't use rocks when trying to hit the can or you may hurt whoever's playing with you.

Bordon

In the mood for something eerie? Bordon is a game usually played after prayers in funerals. The players sit around in a circle with one "It" in the middle. They pass around a ring (or it could be anything) without the "It" seeing and sing the 'bordon' song. The "It" tries to guess who the ring is with until the person gets caught.
That person becomes the next "It".
You can use another song if you don't know what the bordon song is. Just don't sing too loud! You don't want to wake up the spirits around you!

Gagamba

If Spiderman doesn't cut it for you, maybe you can try Gagamba. WARNING: If creepy crawlies make you squeamish, then this game probably isn't for you! The rules are simple. Each player comes in with their 'champion spiders'. The spiders are sent against each other on a stick.
The spider that doesn't get eaten by the other one wins! Please do not use spiders that are potentially dangerous.
Also, if you have "Flora" friends, make sure they don't see you. Flora can be twice as dangerous as a poisonous spider if she finds out that you're playing this game!

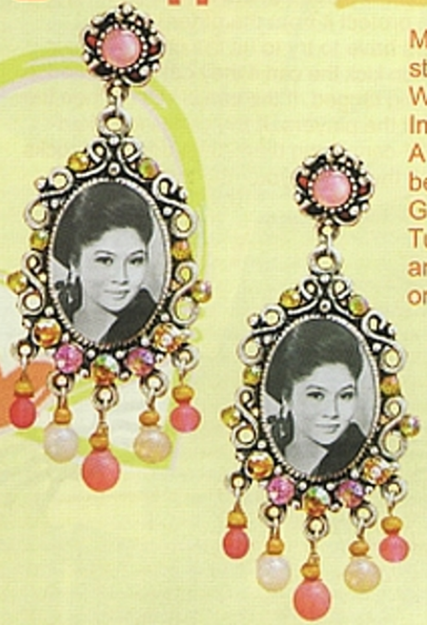
Filipino inspired fashion

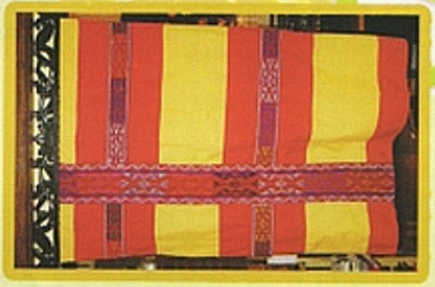
You don't have to look far to be the most fashion forward girl in town because Pinoy fashion is definitely in! Check out these trendy Filipino inspired designs that are available locally, of course.

Get Happy with Imelda earrings



Marilyn Monroe, Elvis…. Who is the next best superstar to stamp on all your t-shirts and pencil cases in black and white? Who better than the very illustrious, first lady of the Philippines, Imelda Marcos!

A quirky, fun pair of earrings with her prints do exist in the best place for any fashiosta to satisfy her jewelry fix, Get Happy. Can't afford to buy another pair of shoes? Turn to your own personal Imelda hanging onto your ear and you will surely get some motivation… or maybe a good laugh.



malong nation

Take a cue from our fellow Pinoys in Mindanao, the malong is the new prarie skirt. Sick of all the fairyland wannabes wearing matching wings and floaty skirts all over the mall? Time to stand out girl, and make it loud. Malongs are best in Indian-inspired designs or paired with ethnic jewelry. In general, they're better as skirts but if you're daring enough, you can wear them as a tube dress with a bolero over it. And that's not all you can do. Use your creativity! Even Vogue editors will tell you that ethnic is in, so if you're feeling a bit patriotic that's very, very cool.

National Treasures

Our country is rich in rare species of plants and animals. But lately, Filipinos have been showing little respect for our environment. We hear news of illegal logging, dynamite fishing, air pollution and other things harmful to the world around us. This costs the lives of our animals and plants - making them endangered. Here are some examples of the endangered animals in our country today.

The Tarsier

The Tarsier is one of the smallest monkeys in the world. It is about 6 inches long and get this, its tail is 10" and, it is hairless! In the world there are about 3 species of Tarsier: in the Philippines, Sumatra and Borneo. The Tarsier is covered with dense brown fur. They have huge round eyes that are set together in a flat face. Tarsier legs are built for climbing and jumping on and off trees. They only feed on small insects and reptiles. You can visit Bohol, the home of these little monkeys.

The Philippine Turtle

The Philippine Turtle lives in Turtle island also known as "Tawi-Tawi". Did you know that the Philippine Turtle can lay up to 100-150 eggs at one time? The Philippine Turtle can also live up to 150 years! This Philippine Turtle is endangered because of dynamite fishing in the islands, and also because of abandoned nets that the Turtles get stuck to. Philippine Turtles have been killed for their shells to make decorations and to sell to tourists.

Monkey Eating Eagle

The Monkey Eating Eagle is huge and by its name you know what it eats! This eagle eats tarsiers mainly. Can you belive it? It eats tarsiers! Anyway, at least our little monkey friends have strong legs to run away.
The Monkey Eating Eagle is huge and can grow to the size of a 3 to 5 year old child!

Filipino Inventors

We've all heard of Agapito Flores, the Filipino who is credited for inventing the flourescent lamp.
But guess what? There are more Filipinos who we can be extremely proud of:

Eduardo San Juan: The First Car On The Moon

One thing we can be proud of is the invention of the Moon Buggy, which was the first car ever driven on the moon. Eduardo San Juan, a Filipino inventor who worked for Lockheed Corporation is said to have conceptualized the design.
He was said to have designed it out of homemade materials and he won a TOYM award for this in 1978. While Poland may credit the invention to their own hero and NASA may credit the invention to 'a group of space engineers', we know the real truth, and that's all we need to hear. Pinoy pride, baby!

Fe Del Mundo : Inventor of the Incubator

Did you know that this baby-saving device is not only credited to a Filipino but to a Filipino woman on top of that? Now that's what we call girl power! Fe del Mundo was not only the first Asian to enter Harvard's School of Medicine; her studies also led to the invention of the incubator and the jaundice relieving device making life easier for all the premature babies out there. She has also received the Elizabeth Blackwell Award for her 'outstanding service to mankind' and a Ramon Magsaysay Award for outstanding public service.
Do we hear a Nobel Peace Prize on its way?
Not yet, but we're crossing our fingers for this great Pinoy woman!

A Very Yo-yo Story

People in the United States had started playing with the British bandalore or yo-yo in the 1860s.
If you didn't know already, we had yo-yos too and actually the name came from us. Yo-yo is a Tagalog word which means to 'come back'. You can impress your Filipino teachers with that one! Anyway, in the 1920s, Pedro Flores, a Filipino immigrant in the United States started manufacturing the 'bandalore' toys under the name 'Yo-Yo'. Duncan Donald (not to be confused with Dunkin Donuts) saw the toy, bought the rights from Flores and then trademarked the name Yo-yo.So did you think that the yo-yo was an American toy?
Pinoy 'yan, parang ikaw.

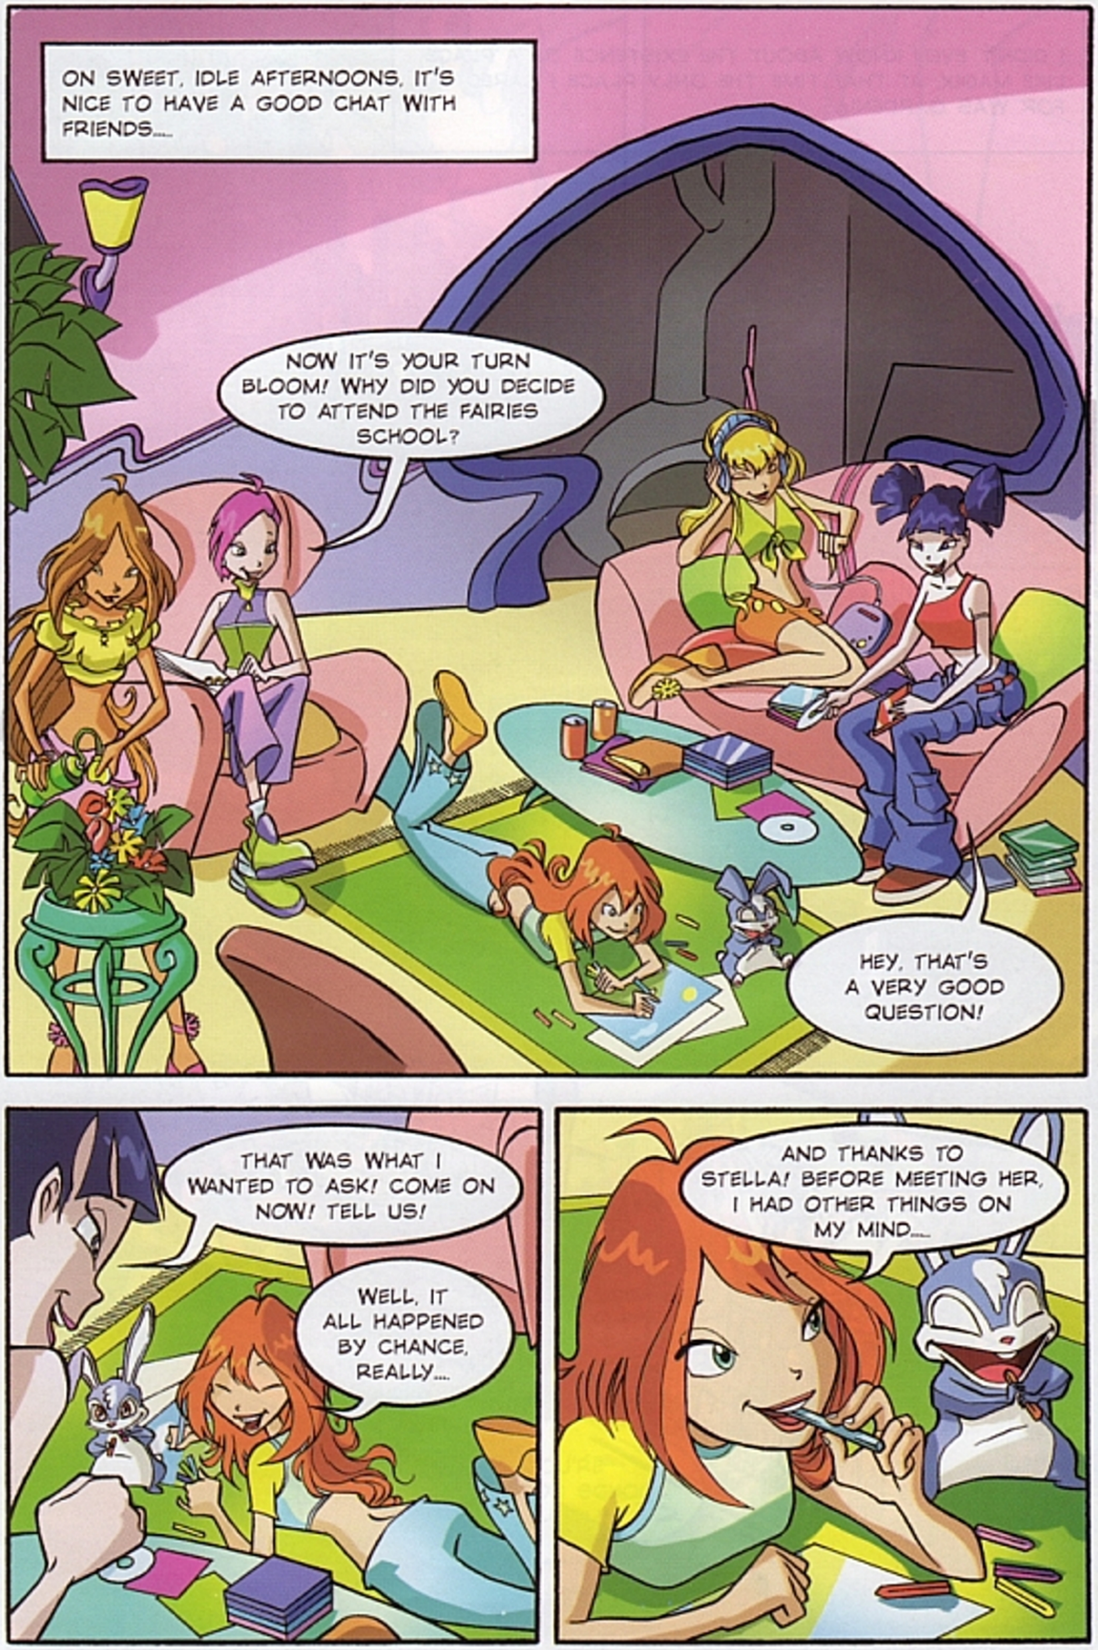
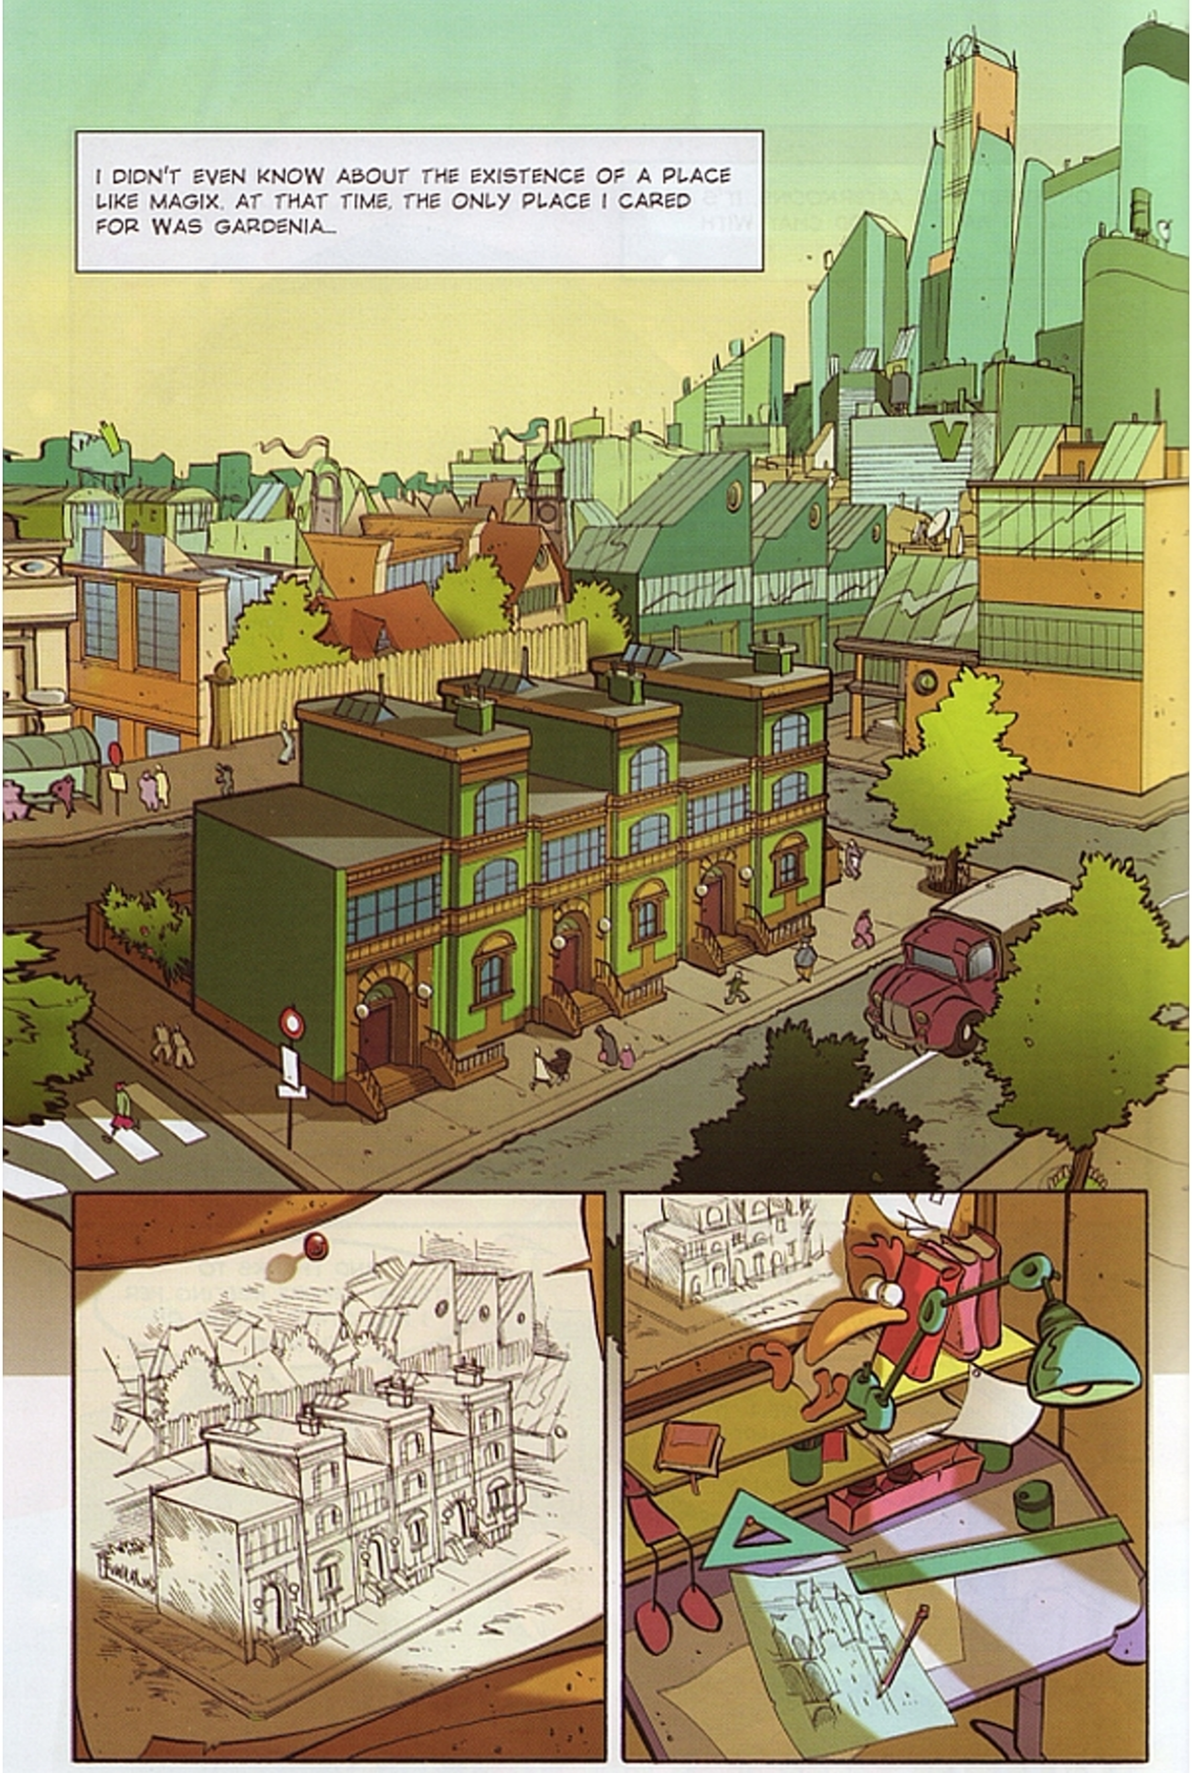
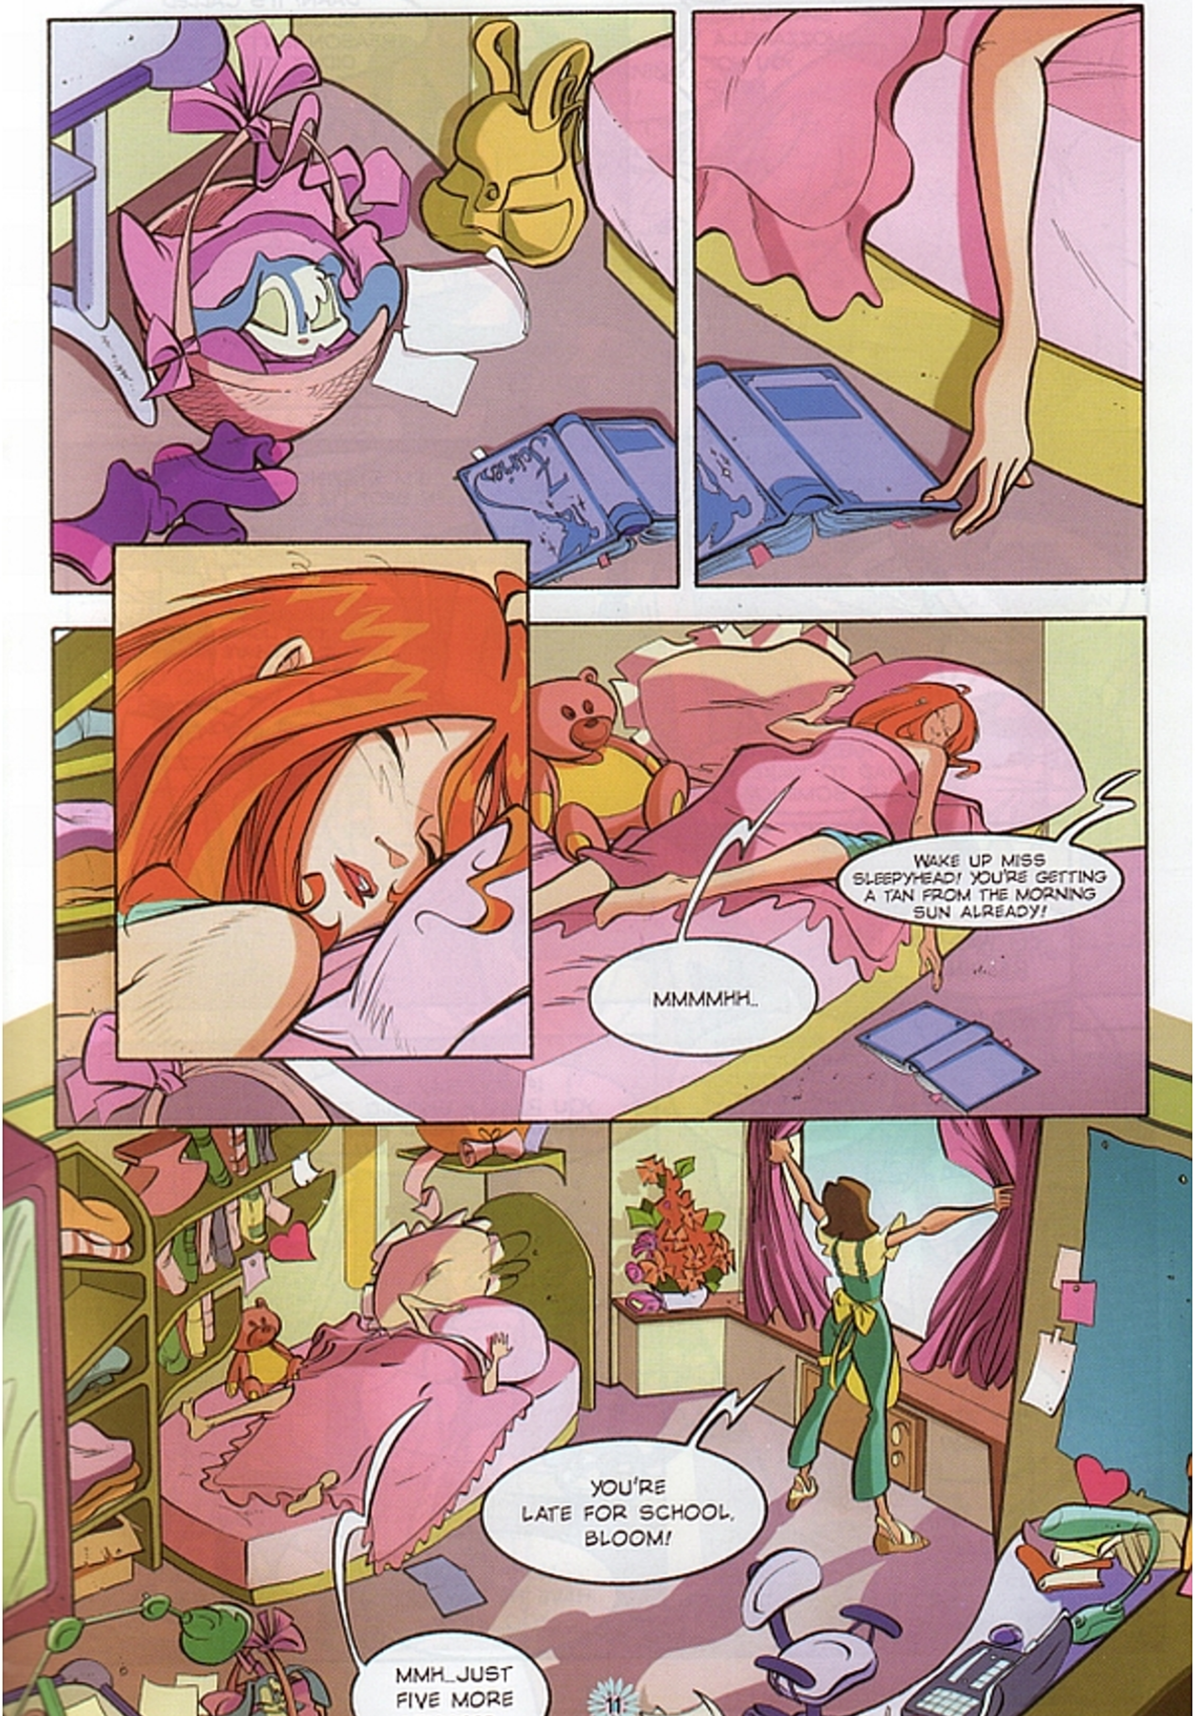
A FRIEND FOR BLOOM



ON SWEET, IDLE AFTERNOONS, IT'S NICE TO HAVE A GOOD CHAT WITH FRIENDS....
NOW IT'S YOUR TURN BLOOM! WHY DID YOU DECIDE TO ATTEND THE FAIRIES SCHOOL?
HEY, THAT'S A VERY GOOD QUESTION!
THAT WAS WHAT I WANTED TO ASK! COME ON NOW! TELL US!
WELL, IT ALL HAPPENED BY CHANCE, REALLY....
AND THANKS TO STELLA! BEFORE MEETING HER, I HAD OTHER THINGS ON MY MIND....



I DIDN'T EVEN KNOW ABOUT THE EXISTENCE OF A PLACE LIKE MAGIX. AT THAT TIME, THE ONLY PLACE I CARED FOR WAS GARDENIA...



WAKE UP MISS SLEEPYHEAD! YOU'RE GETTING A TAN FROM THE MORNING SUN ALREADY!
MMMMHH..
YOU'RE LATE FOR SCHOOL, BLOOM!
MMH...JUST FIVE MORE MINUTES...

GIRL POWER

Filipinos tend to have a natural talent for music. On American Idol, we always look forward to seeing a Filipino contestant get in. Even though they don't win, Filipinos around the world never fail to support our fellow Noy-pi. Sadly, some kids today still prefer to support American and music artists from other

The Philippines is rich in talented people with a gift for music of every genre. Here are two Pinoy artists definitely worth listening to: Nina and Kitchie love you all!

Nina

There are many popular, female Filipino artists in our country and this is probably because females outnumber males in the Philippines. Some of these talented women are Nina and Kitchie Nadal. Nina is regarded for her pleasing-to-the-ears pop songs and a voice resembling Mariah Carey's. Her songs like 'Foolish heart', 'Jealous', 'Heaven' and many more have topped the charts over the past few years. People just can't get enough of her platinum selling albums 'Heaven' and 'Smile'. If you love Nina we recommend buying her CD Nina Live.

Thank you for supporting OPM!
Kitchie

Another female artist to look up to is Kitchie Nadal, a former band member of Mojofly who just came back recently after a long disappearance from the biz. With her pop-rock alternative music Kitchie Nadal instantly topped the charts with songs like 'Bulong' and 'Same Ground. Unlike most pop artists, Kitchie Nadal writes most of her songs. She also never fails to impress with her amazing guitar skills. And that is just one of the reasons why so many Filipino fans love her.
